MANY AT WORK IN BIG ART CONTEST

Children and Teachers Display Growing Interest in School-Room Decoration.

If one has any doubts about the love of the children for the beautiful, their desire to have the beautiful in art about them in the hours spent in the school-rooms, one has only to see the pupils in the afternoon at the office of the superintendent in order to have these doubts dispelled.

They come singly, by twos, by threes, and in larger numbers, and their comments upon the pieces of sculpture on exhibition in Miss Brinkhaus's office show how fully they appreciate the generous gifts of The Times-Dispatch.

The Mervin Ghentian, six feet ten inches in height on exhibition in the window of the Business Office in a great favorite with the children. They much enjoy her strength. The two Donatello reliefs in Room 3 are popular with them, because the cherubs there shown are so happy in their actions.

Miss Davis's school is a newcomer in the ranks of the private schools secured in the contest for schoolroom decoration. The little folk there are very eager to secure one of the beautiful gifts offered by The Times-Dispatch, and are hard at work gathering coupons.

The school may be said of the pupils of the Westminster School, whom Miss Brinkhaus met yesterday morning, and with whom she was much pleased. This school has already done much with pictures, and is entitled to congratulations. These pictures are so well selected.

The Navy Hill School has entered the contest for the colored schools with quite a substantial showing.

All coupons must reach Room 4, Times Building, on or before noon to-morrow, November 17. Hereafter all coupons will bear the time-limit upon them, and every one is requested to comply with this rule, since failure to do so may be a serious loss to some school.

BREAK IS CLOSED.

Superintendent Bolling Will Exhibit Pipes to Committee.

The large break in the water main on Laurel Street, at Park Avenue, which has been baffling the efforts of the water department for sixty hours, was successfully closed yesterday by Superintendent Bolling. It was necessary to tunnel under the pavement and take out two sections of pipe, however. The water has again been turned on, but the department dare not apply high pressure, knowing the condition of this old and electrocuted main. Superintendent Bolling has removed the pipes to his office, and will photograph them for an exhibit at the special hearing on electrolysis before the joint meeting of the Committees on Water and Electricity next Thursday night.

DISCUSS PLAN TO FURNISH LABOR

Post A. of the Travelers' Protective Association, has inaugurated a movement to remedy the condition due to the scarcity of desirable labor. It has called a meeting at their headquarters, Third and Main, for next Monday night, to which many business men have been invited, with a view to devising some plan for the organization of what is to be known as an employment bureau.

Circular letters have been sent out by a committee, consisting of Messrs. R. W. Spillman, G. H. Hobson and W. W. Letew, announcing the meeting and stating its aim and purpose. The action is based upon the fact, personally ascertained by the members of the T. P. A., that nearly all the manufacturers of Richmond are handicapped and harassed by a shortage of competent and desirable labor, and that as a result they cannot operate their plants at full capacity.

A COLORED PREACHER FOUND DEAD IN SNOW

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
BOYDTON, Va., November 15.—Rev. Hercules Coleman, colored, was found dead on the roadside this morning covered over with snow. Coleman had been out to marry a couple about four miles from town. He performed the ceremony and left the house for home at 1 o'clock, in company with others, and the old man fearing to walk a trifle on the railroad the other members of the company were going to undertake, he parted company with them and kept the public road, and it is supposed fell on the wayside from heart disease and died. The marriage license was found in his pocket, unopened by him. It is supposed that he intended to certify the marriage after he returned home and delivered the certificate to the civil clerk, Clerk Hutcherson, is puzzled to know what to do with the license, as the law requires the certificate of the officiating minister to make the marriage lawful. And another matter, will the parties have to be remarried?
